

Becoming a WCA Affiliate Member

Who can become a member of World Cement Association? Membership is open to companies, not-for-profit organisations and individuals with a stake in the future of cement, clinker and related materials.

WCA facilitates cooperation at sector level. This gives members opportunities to work together across sectors on development of industrial symbiosis models that consider sustainability, digitalization and other trends which lead to new business opportunities for the building materials sector, benefiting both our members and society at large.

Affiliate Members: We welcome applications from not-for-profit organisations related to the objectives of the WCA e.g., regional or national cement associations and other related industry associations, and any further categories that may be defined by the Board. Applicants shall nominate a natural person to represent them together with an alternate.

What does it cost? There is no cost for Affiliate Members to join WCA. We believe that it is important that we work together, and thus WCA invites your organisation to be part of our global cement community. As a member you will also receive a members discount on WCA conferences and events. Help us to share best practices and drive industry standards.
